The Albatross' story includes multiple owners, name changes, grounding at the Falsterbro Canal, and collisions. Today, it is said that the ship resides in England under the name Eileen Eigg, making a loving difference for the disabled.

Dagnys Forfriskning 120,-

Dagny's Refreshment is inspired by the Danish summer and a classic Gin Sour – fresh, sweet, with a delightful elderflower flavor that quickly disappears. Dagny was a cargo ship built in 1937 for Captain N.C. Godriksen in Aalborg. In 1959, Dagny was sold to Captain Hans Christian Rasmussen on Samsø, and in 1964, the ship was sold to Copenhagen and renamed Grete. In 1967, the ship disappeared from the ship registers, and it is unclear whether Dagny was scrapped, sold abroad, or lost.

During World War I, the ship served as a patrol boat to monitor ships sailing in German waters. In 1920, the ship was sold and used as a cargo ship for smaller loads under the names Adele Krüger and Gustav Krüger. In 1927, the ship was bought and brought to Aalborg, where it was renamed Maagen. Maagen transported goods in the Limfjord and along Danish coasts until 1967, when a dentist from Sakskøbing purchased and converted the ship into a pleasure craft named Sampo. In 1992-94, the Harbour Museum in Kiel bought the ship, and it can now be seen as part of the Museum Harbour in Kiel.
